Join the World Class

Islamabad School of Law provides an internationally recognized and valued legal qualification of LLB Hons, University of London. Islamabad School of Law is a leading institution in Islamabad and our students join a prestigious group of law graduates who have achieved great success in the legal profession and related fields. Our mission is to provide high quality legal education for our students so that they are a step ahead of their peers when they graduate and enter their careers. Our highly qualified teachers work with our students and oversee their development and growth. We also encourage our students to grow as individuals by providing a wide range of extracurricular activities such as mootings, mock trials and debating so that students can become skillful legal practitioners.

Studying at Islamabad School of Law enhances the ability to think critically and analytically; these abilities are highly valued in the legal profession. ISL graduates, therefore, have an excellent base to launch their professional careers not only as lawyers but also as company advisors and educators.

Whatever your reasons for studying law, ISL will equip you with highly sought legal skills for your careers.

ISL has privilege of imparting quality legal education for over a quarter of a century. The faculty at ISL has always been competent, dedicated and responsive to the needs of our students. We provide an environment of education that fosters individual growth, enhancing intellectual abilities and genuine interest in legal learning. We are proud that our students have achieved great results and went onto to built successful careers in the legal profession.

Certificate of Higher Education in Common Law

Programme overview

The CertHE Common Law is a qualification in its own right that also provides an entry route to degree study. The modules studied in the CertHE Common Law are the same as the Level 4 modules of the LLB. The CertHE Common Law may be studied either full-time or part-time. Students must have registered through and be studying at a teaching institution recognised by the University for these purposes

This qualification is for you if:

You have the ability, motivation and self-discipline to study at degree level but do not have the qualifications usually required to enter a degree programme.

- You have a personal or professional interest in studying law and would like an easily-managed programme of study.

- You intend to undertake a degree programme but would like to gain a recognised qualification after one year.

Features of the CertHE Common Law:

You can achieve a law qualification in some of the core legal subjects without committing to the full LLB programme, but with the option to go on to the full LLB programme.

- You can complete the CertHE Common Law in a minimum of one year and a maximum of five years.

- The CertHE Common Law is rigorously examined by University of London approved academics.

- You can transfer to the LLB programme after successful completion of three modules, including Legal system and method.

- You must register with a recognised teaching institution so that you can benefit from the extra tuition support

Institution support

Islamabad School of Law is one of the earliest institutions recognized by the University of London satisfying the quality criteria to teach this programme.

My journey at ISL has taught me a lot more than I could have imagined. Islamabad School of Law has been instrumental in preparing me for the real legal world and has served as a useful corridor for me to transform into a lawyer from a law student. The faculty and welcoming environment always encouraged me to excel and will be dearly missed. The three years went by so quickly and will always be cherished.

I strongly believe that opting for an external degree whilst studying in the comfort of my home city gave me an edge. The University of London Programme has been carefully designed to cater to all types of students and I would genuinely recommend it to anyone who is passionate about law.

Practising law in England and Wales

Entry into the legal profession in England and Wales involves three stages of training: academic, vocational, and practical. The University of London LLB is recognised as a Qualifying Law Degree and the completion of the academic stage of legal training in England and Wales as long as certain specific conditions are fulfilled:

- The period of study must not be more than six years.
- You must have satisfied the examiners in respect of the Foundations of Legal

Knowledge subject areas, which are:

Contract law
Criminal law
Equity and Trusts
EU law
Property law
Public law
Tort law

- You must have passed these foundation subjects in not more than three attempts.
- You must have demonstrated the attainment of various skills, including legal research, oral communication and IT skills.

Satisfactory completion of the academic stage of legal training does not guarantee automatic admission to the next stage of training (vocational). For example, entry requirements will relate closely to your classification and results from the academic stage of your studies.

Islamabad School of Law was a life-changing experience for me and certainly one which set my professional career on the track to success. The UOL External LLB Programme was very well structured, challenging and was taught with great clarity and cohesion. I truly value my LLB degree as it remains the core foundation upon which my professional life stands firm and reminds me that studies coupled with hard work not only pays off well but instils a sense of achievement, self-confidence and contentment. I am proud to say that ISL gave me the tools to overcome the fear of failure and the hope to achieve what at one point seemed insurmountable.

I chose this programme because I felt it would give me a good platform to gain an advantage in entering the legal field. The years I spent studying for this were certainly rewarding. It encouraged me to develop an undying commitment to a goal, set strategic actions, learn from my mistakes, to keep going despite feeling defeated, to think outside the box and, like any degree, perceive things critically. I am not only graduating with first class honours, I'm stepping into the future with a better version of me.

University of London and Islamabad School of Law have a great reputation with employers. Without their helpfulness and directness, my studies would have been more challenging. I owe my sincere gratitude to my teachers and well-wishers for the completion of my endeavour.

So much is possible after a law degree. I, however, intend to apply for Bar Professional Training Course in prestigious UK universities. Alongside I can already imagine myself giving back to the law community by providing lectures to currently enrolled students.

Rayan Karim joined the LLB international programme at Islamabad School of Law in 2014. According to a statement recorded for the University of London success stories in 2017, Ms. Karim says that she was “blissfully ignorant of what studying law would involve. However, the course material and tutoring advanced by the faculty served as a guiding light leading me to realise my full potential and achieve a first class award.” It was a truly victorious moment for ISL as an institution committed to excellence.

She is currently preparing to take up her Bar Professional Training Course (BPTC) at the University of the West of England starting September 2018. We wish her luck to succeed in her future endeavours.

Ahmed Farooq

Ahmed Farooq registered as a student at ISL in 2014. He enrolled in the University of London Diploma in Law Programme. He received his Diploma in Law in 2015, scoring the highest aggregate in the world, and receiving multiple academic achievement awards and distinctions. He continued his law studies at ISL as a University of London LLB (Hons.) student and graduated with First-Class Honours in 2017, having scored a total of six distinctions over three years.

During the term of his legal studies, Ahmed interned for Advocate Umer Gillani at the Foundation for Fundamental Rights. He also interned for the former Advocate General of Islamabad (Mian Abdul Rauf), and interned at the Research Society of International Law (Islamabad). He was also a Courting the Law National Scholar, a Mooter, and a national swimmer. Upon graduation, he worked at the Research Society of International Law as a Junior Research Associate.

In 2017, he gained admission to Harvard Law School's LLM Programme. His studies at Harvard are currently underway.

BTT (Bar Transfer Test)

The Bar Transfer Test is the test for lawyers from overseas jurisdictions transferring to the Bar of England and Wales. The purpose of the Bar Transfer Test (BTT) is to enable candidates who are qualified lawyers to have the opportunity to transfer to the Bar of England and Wales, without having to undergo the full course of education and training as required in the Academic Stage (Qualifying Law Degree or conversion course) and the Vocational Stage (Bar Professional Training Course, 'BPTC').

The Bar Transfer Test consists of a maximum of 13 separate assessments, the majority of which are time-constrained formal written examinations, the remainder being oral assessments. The examination papers relate to the knowledge of the Foundation subjects as specified by the Joint Statement and covered in the Qualifying Law Degree (QLD) or the Common Professional Examination (CPE) or Graduate Diploma in Law (GDL) and to the knowledge, skills and competencies that are assessed on the BPTC. Together these form the essential components for Call to the Bar of England and Wales. In some circumstances, it may not be necessary for individual candidates to take all papers and oral assessments but candidates are required to demonstrate their ability in all papers that are required. In addition, those candidates sitting the Advocacy assessment are required to attend a compulsory training course at the Test Provider, before undertaking the assessment. The elements of the BTT framework and requirements are as follows:

Part A (relating to CPE/GDL)

- Public Law (Constitutional Law, Administrative Law and Human Rights)
- Law of the European Union
- Criminal Law
- Obligations including Contract, Restitution and Tort
- Property Law
- Equity and the Law of Trusts
- English Legal system

Part B (relating to the BPTC)

- Advocacy
- Civil Litigation, Evidence and Remedies
- Criminal Litigation, Evidence and Sentencing
- Ethics
- Opinion Writing
- Drafting

The Qualifications Committee has the power to exempt qualified lawyers from the Academic, Vocational and/or Professional stages of training for the Bar of England and Wales. Such exemptions may be granted subject to passing certain sections of the Bar Transfer Test (which must be taken at a single sitting). Prospective candidates may not apply directly to undertake the Test, but must first apply to the Qualifications Committee under one of the approved routes of transfer to the Bar. In some circumstances it may be preferable or necessary for a candidate to take the CPE/GDL rather than a large diet of assessments from Part A.

In September 1998 I made my first phone call to a law school listed on British Council prospectus, and since then there has been no looking back. ISL is not only a school offering law classes, but is an institution shaping lives of each student forever. The continuous support and encouragement of the management and staff helps each student to tap their potential and excel.

Graduate Diploma in Commercial Law

Programme overview

The Graduate Diploma in Commercial Law is a flexible programme aimed at those who wish to gain some knowledge and expertise in English commercial law to enhance their existing qualifications. The Graduate Diploma in Commercial Law is a qualification in its own right, designed to offer focused specialisation in aspects relevant to commercial law and practice for students who are eligible for admission to the LLB but who do not wish to register for the full degree, or require a bridging qualification for entry into postgraduate study on, for example, the LLM.

This qualification is for you if:

- You have the ability, motivation and self-discipline to study at degree level but do not want to commit to a full LLB programme.
- You would like to enhance key skills of communication, information literacy, analysis and argument.
- You want the flexibility to pace your studies to fit in with your other commitments.
- You want to develop specialist subject knowledge in the area of commercial law.
- Please note that the programme is not a Graduate Diploma in Law and does not offer a Graduate Entry pathway to a Qualifying Law Degree.

Features of the Graduate Diploma

- Flexibility in the time you can take to complete it, in the available examination opportunities and in the choice of modules.

- The modules you take are rigorously examined to the same standards applied to both internal and external students studying for the LLB with the University of London.

- Specially developed course materials and a wealth of online resources, including an online library and online learning environment, giving you the ability to study independently, when convenient for you.

Flexible study options

You have the flexibility to pace your studies to fit in with your other commitments as you have up to five years to complete this diploma. You are also able to split examinations over two examination sessions in the academic year (subject to a maximum of two examinations in the October session).

Graduate Diploma in Commercial Law

Two compulsory modules:

Commercial law

Contract law

Two optional modules chosen

Alternative Dispute Resolution

Company law

Conflict of laws

Intellectual property

International commercial law

Employment law

The Graduate Diploma in Commercial Law is subject to validation

The Graduate Diploma in Law (GDL)

The Graduate Diploma in Law (GDL)/ Common Professional Examination (CPE) is a graduate course which non-law graduates (and law graduates without a qualifying law degree (QLD)) may undertake in order to be eligible to apply for the Vocational Stage of Training to qualify as either Solicitors or Barristers. The GDL satisfies the professional body requirements of the academic stage of training for Solicitors and Barristers. The completion of academic requirements will provide students with the required legal knowledge upon which to undertake vocational requirements. Academic requirements must be completed prior to the commencement of vocational training and can be fulfilled by the completion of either:

- a qualifying law degree (QLD); or
- a degree in any other subject, supplemented by an approved GDL course.

A GDL must meet the requirements of the Joint Statement to be deemed to fulfill the academic requirements.

Key requirements of the Joint Statement

English Legal System

Legal Research skills

Public Law

Law of the European Union

Criminal Law

Contract Law

Tort Law

Property Law

Equity and the Law of Trusts

Students wishing to undertake the GDL to qualify for the Bar Professional Training Course need to obtain a Certificate of Academic Standing (CAS) from the Bar Standards Board before they enrol on the GDL. Applications for GDL are made through the Central Applications Board.

Mohammad Ali completed his LLB Honours in 2004 from ISL through University of London (External Programme). He was first called to the Bar by the Honourable Society of Lincoln's Inn in 2005 after completing his Bar Vocational Course from the University of West of England. He subsequently qualified as a Solicitor of the Supreme Court of England and Wales in 2009. After moving to Canada in 2014, Mohammad Ali was called to the Nova Scotia Bar in 2016. Mohammad Ali currently works for Cox & Palmer in their Halifax, Nova Scotia office—a full-service Atlantic Canadian law firm with over 200 lawyers through-out the four eastern provinces of Canada.

Studying this course with the UOL has broadened my horizon and has brought a positive change in my personality. It has made me more confident, intellectual and open-minded. UOL gives you a flexible study option; you can do a law course that is globally recognised while having the comfort of your own home country. ISL and its teachers were a huge support system during my LLB Programme. They made sure each and every student understood the basics of law which later helped me during my postgraduate studies.

Internships and Job Placements

The institution also makes arrangements for students to gain work experience at various law firms and corporate entities. While focusing on the interest of students in a specific subject area, we offer them internship in law firms specialising in those areas. For example, if a student is interested in criminal litigation, we try to get him an internship in a law firm exclusively practising and specialising in criminal litigation, hence enabling him to have a first-hand experience in a subject of his/her choice.

Our alumnus plays a strong role in getting these internships and job placements. Numerous students after completion of their studies have or are offering their services in reputable organizations and law firms such as: United Nations, USAID, Shell Pakistan, Caltex, Attock Oil Refinery, British Petroleum, Orient Petroleum, Pakistan Petroleum Limited, Pakistan Tobacco Company Limited, PTCL, Mobilink, U-Fone, Telenor, Nokia Pakistan, National Accountability Bureau, Office of the Attorney General of Pakistan, Office of the Advocate General of Punjab, Hafeez Pirzada Law Associates, Mandviwalla and Zafar Law Associates, Aitzaz Ahsan Law Associates, Wasim Sajjad Law Associates, Kundi and Kundi Law Associates, Rizvi, Isa, Afridi and Angels Law Associates, Orr Dignam, Azam Chaudhry Law Associates, Qureshi and Samdani Advocates, and Qazi and Hussain Law Associates. Furthermore, a number of our students have joined the Civil Service of Pakistan or pursued a successful career in Politics and have become members of the National and Provincial Assemblies.

Access Centre

The access centre at Islamabad School of Law is a professional college placement and educational advisory unit exclusively for Islamabad School of Law students. It enables students to explore international opportunities as well as the best of those on offer at home.

Access centre advisors help students talk out their career paths, select colleges to apply to, assist college applications and financial aid forms.

The access Centre has links with the world's leading colleges and universities and frequently invites representatives of these institutions for information, seminars and discussions.

The following Universities are just a few educational institutions that have recently offered admission to Islamabad School of Law students.
